

We thought you might like to hear this...

"I was very hesitant to take online voice lessons.

But when I got started I quickly discovered my voice instructor Liz is an excellent teacher. She takes the time to help me understand what I need to work on. She points out my weaknesses in a very professional and kind way and helps me improve them at a surprising speed.

In only 3 remote lessons

I've improved so much that it's hard for me to believe it.

Thank you for all your help and encouragement - you were right about online lessons, and

I am certain you picked the right teacher for me!"

Our faculty are excited about VirtuLessons too!

"VirtuLessons offers great audio and video for the lessons and the platform is well organized. I can share files or documents easily and the system sends lesson notifications, keeping everyone informed and on the same page."

-Olivia Min Noh

"VirtuLessons offers a wonderful way to reach students through not just video, but also with interactive white boards. Here students and teachers will have the ability to draw on music or instrument diagrams as another way to communicate."

-Karl Knapp

"I am most excited for the convenience and simplification that VirtuLessons brings to remote teaching. No more weekly zoom links or sending music individually to each student for them to have to print or download ahead of time."

-Ava D'Agostino

"The musical games will capture the students' attention to help them enjoy not only playing the instruments but also to understand the importance of music theory."

VirtuLessons at CMSS...From a parent's perspective

"VirtuLessons offers a unique option [for remote music lessons] over FaceTime or Zoom, as it allows you to both see your instructor and collaborate with them on sheet music or other visual materials in real time.

The ability to dissect materials and markup lessons with your instructor is fun, and having notes from each session saved [in your profile] makes it easier to stay on track between lessons.

From a parent's perspective, I appreciate that the connection between my children and their teachers goes beyond just the video interaction and allows them to focus on the music theory on the screen without the need to print off a bunch of things ahead of time.

Logging in and launching lessons is simple, and the lesson points and historical notes make it fun for students to track their progress along the way."
